

INTERNATIONAL CONFERENCING

All participants located in the United States should use the toll-free number or direct dial number assigned to your company. If however, you are conducting a conference from abroad, you may use the International toll-free numbers below to access the conference.

For most International conference calls, the moderator has the choice of using an International toll-free number or a direct dial number. Participants using the direct dial number will pay their own long distance through their own carrier. Participants dialing the toll-free number will not pay any charges for the conference as all charges, including long distance, will be included on the invoice sent to the company hosting the call.

In some cases, participants from certain International countries may only use a direct dial number.

International Participants:

1. Dial the conference number sent by the moderator of the call.
2. The participant will then enter their passcode (provided by the moderator) when prompted for it.
3. The participant is then placed into the conference.
